

BY MOLLIE RUNCORN.

Violin and piano pupils of Miss Joy Turner, instructor at Willamette university, were presented in a well-chosen program Friday night at the college of music, invitations being responded to by about one hundred friends and relatives of the young musicians.

Applause was frequent and spontaneous, the work done by the pupils being exceptionally meritorious.

Marian Emmons, a pupil of violin, opened the program with a double number, Melodies from Blumenthal and Dancels, rendering them in splendid style. Although but a first-year student, her expression and understanding of her music displayed unquestionable ability. She also played Lilacs by Kern.

Piano numbers much enjoyed were given by Pearl Osterman who rendered "Bed Time" and "All Aboard," by Spaulding. Her work is characterized by delicacy of tone and touch, and although but seven years old, her playing displays many qualities usually noted in more mature musicians.

Letha Driscoll, who appeared in the Mendenhall recital recently, again charmed with her violin interpretation of "Petit Berceuse," by Hermann.

Frances Ward and Rita Reil, young vocalists, lent their assistance, rendering several songs.

Others who appeared were Leone Matthews, Floyd Siegmund, Cloyd Cochran, Melbourne Badcliffe, Legene Barnes, George Lien Kaemper, William Sherwood, Glyde Gardiner, Henry Radcliffe and Lucille McCully.

Miss Ann Ketel, of St. Helens, and Miss Marie Sneed, of Halsey, students of Willamette, who leave for their homes after the commencement exercises, were complimented guests Friday night when Miss Laura and Miss Ada Ross entertained a number of the young people of the university. Following informal indoor entertainment, the Virginia reel was enjoyed on the lawn.

Guests were: Misses Grace Thompson, Ruth Bayer, Ann Ketel, Marie Sneed, Elsie Phillips and Messrs. Leeland Bond, Seth Axley, Harry Rice, Charles C. Hall, Maxwell Ball, Paul T. Homan, Tinkham Gilbert and Foster Luce.

One of the merriest of children's parties was given by Mrs. Ralph Glover, Saturday afternoon, when she entertained a bevy of future beaux and belles in celebration of the fourth birthday of her daughter Maxine.

Assisting Mrs. Glover were Mrs. John Brophy, Miss Gene Belle and Miss Cora Talkington.

Filling a large basket at the center of the table around which the small guests were seated were lovely Carolyn Testout buds, and from the table corners to the electric dome above hung garlands of pink. Nasturtiums in bowls also graced the entertaining rooms.

Guests were: Nancy Thielsen, Henry Wesley Thielsen, Robert Bishop, Charles K. Bishop, Pauline Johnson, Helen Darby, Helen Magers, Mary Magers, Kathryn Homan, Lorena Geer, Leona Geer, Catherine Mulvey, Bernice Mulvey, Vera Babcock, Dorothy Tweedale, Charles Roth, Kenneth Roth, Alvin Burton, Rovina Eyre, David Walter Eyre, Edwin Cross, John Meredith, Goldie Harris, Kathleen Powers, Francis Catlin Cotter, George Settemier, Claudia Settemier, Frederick Schroek, Nancy Thompson and Richard Thompson of Portland, Delmar Bogart of Portland, Jane Thielsen of San Francisco, Ted Jack, Maxine Jack, Linden Harris, Howard Baker, Edmund Carl, Alicia Hunt, Richard Henry Upjohn, Stanley Price, Mary Talmadge, Margaret Goodin, Richard Goodin, Ethel.

Mrs. P. A. Harris, daughter and son left last week for Kansas, where they will remain during the summer, expecting to return in October.

Ross Harris, one of Salem's youngest and most talented violinists, was announced to appear at Miss Turner's recital, but owing to the Harris departure being necessitated a few days previous, those in attendance Friday night were denied the pleasure of hearing him.

A pleasant affair of last week was a miscellaneous shower given Saturday afternoon at the pretty home of Mrs. Ernest Bowen on University street in honor of Miss Edna Barriek, bride-elect. The beautiful gifts were arranged in a white parasol adorned with pink and white rosebuds and ribbon. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. C. E. Bowen. Invitations were sent to Mrs. Ray Clark and daughter Maxine, Mrs. C. J. Ramsden, Mrs. L. A. Berick, Mrs. DeSart, Mrs. Earl Pooler, Mrs. Ernest Bowen, Mrs. C. E. Bowen, Mrs. Chas. F. Elgin, Mrs. N. A. The closing exercises at the State Deaf-Mute school will take place tonight at 8 o'clock. A general invitation is extended to these affairs and are yearly largely responded to, the programs being of unusual interest. Electric cars leaving Salem at 7:45 furnish the most convenient means of reaching the institution.

Dan F. Langenberg will assist on the program, and Superintendent E. F. Carlton will present the diplomas to the six graduates.

Exhibits from the industrial department will be open for inspection from 6:30 until 8 o'clock.

Daddy's Bedtime

Why the Rabbit Was Named Pigeon.

"You are paying me a compliment."

DADDY had just heard of the strange adventures of a certain little bunny rabbit, and he asked Jack and Evelyn how they would like to hear about them.

"I think a bunny's adventures are always very interesting and unusual," said Jack.

"A certain little bunny named Pigeon" commenced daddy.

"A bunny named Pigeon?" shouted both the children at once. "Now, daddy, why was a bunny named Pigeon?" And daddy said:

"You see his mother was very friendly with Mrs. Pouter Pigeon. There had been a time when Mrs. Pouter Pigeon had hurt her left wing, and she hadn't been able to fly. She cried and cried when this happened, and Mother Rabbit, who was very kind hearted, hurried to her right away.

"Why, what is the trouble, Mrs. Pouter Pigeon?" said Mother Rabbit.

"Oh," sobbed Mrs. Pouter Pigeon, "I have fallen and hurt myself terribly! I won't be able to get out of the reach of bigger animals who may want to eat me up, and I don't want to be eaten up."

"At that she burst into more sobs.

"Well, to tell you the truth," said Mother Rabbit, "I don't believe there is a creature living who wants to be eaten up. But you come and live with us, and I will see that you are protected."

"So Mrs. Pouter Pigeon went to live with Mother Rabbit. They became very friendly and attached to one another.

"And then when the little bunny rabbit was born his mother said, 'Now I shall name him Pigeon after you, Mrs. Pouter Pigeon.'

"And Mrs. Pouter Pigeon strutted about and said, 'You have not only saved my life by having me come and live with you, but now you are paying me a fine compliment.'

"And you know the pouter pigeons love to be flattered. In fact, a little praise is good for every one.

"But I haven't told you about little Pigeon's adventures," said daddy.

"One day when it was nice and sunny and warm he thought he would go for a walk. So off he started, and it was not long before he found the most wonderful clover field. He took home just quantities of the clover, enough to enable his mother to give a dinner party and invite all her friends to it, and he left enough in the field so they could come back for more."

"But, daddy," said Evelyn, "he didn't get into trouble that time?"

"No," said daddy. "I told you of that adventure because one without trouble would be such a surprise."

Sunday, the feast of Corpus Christi was celebrated with much pomp and ceremony in St. Joseph's parish. A solemn high mass was sung by Rev. Sheerling, assisted by Rev. A. Moore of Salem as co-consecrator and Frater Oldys-house of Mt. Angel subdeacon.

Loche's Mass in F was beautifully rendered by St. Joseph's choir under the supervision of Dan F. Langenberg. The procession, led by Francis Lebold, as cross-bearer, formed at the church immediately after the service and marched to the front of the academy, where the first benediction was given.

In the decoration of this repository the academy colors, red and green, were blended harmoniously. As the reverend celebrant ascended the steps, 14 small maid garbed in angel costumes and bearing masses of flowers, grouped themselves about the base of the altar. The altar boys bearing lighted candles took places with the white robed figures of the Children of Mary stationed in either side. A violin quartet, accompanied by Miss Louise Bernhardt on the harp, played softly, while the throng of people knelt on the lawn to receive the blessing.

The procession then moved to the rear of the academy campus, where a second beautiful repository had been arranged by the Young Ladies' Sodality in their white pergola, lined with a net work of pink roses and greenery. During the second benediction their girlish voices sweetly led in the hymns of praise and thanksgiving.

On the church grounds the ladies of the altar society had prepared the third repository, these services being conducted with the assistance of St. Joseph's choir. The fourth benediction which concluded the day's services, was given in the church.

SEVEN MEN DIE IN OLD BOARDING HOUSE

Building Erected in 1860—Had Stairways Only 2½ Feet Wide—Jammed to Doors with Armenian Workmen.

Milford, Mass., June 16.—Seven men perished, a score were badly burned, three fatally, and another score were injured jumping from windows, in a fire which destroyed Peter Copaliam's boarding house here early today.

The building, originally intended for a shoe shop, was put up in 1860. It had no fire escapes, fire extinguishers or watchman. Its corridors were five and its wooden stairways only two and a half feet wide. It was jammed to the doors with Armenian workmen in the Draper paper mills.

The flame's spread was so rapid as to be almost an explosion. Some of the boarders had barely time to get out of their rooms even by jumping through windows.

The fire started at 2:30 a. m. and the victims were jumping before the firemen arrived. Those on the first and second floors escaped unhurt but there were many casualties among those who leaped from windows higher up. Every physician in Milford was summoned to the scene and many sufferers were treated lying on neighboring lawns.

As re-arranged, the defenders lined up as follows: No. 1, Rene Lamontagne, No. 2, J. M. Waterbury, No. 3, Lawrence Waterbury, back, Devereaux Milburn.

The British challengers played in the same positions as on Saturday.
